Personal Attributes:

I am a young lady who has always been very fascinated with visual and creative design before I ventured to Graphic Web Design and frontend development. I spend a sum of my time familiarizing myself with new developments and tools to help elevate my skills further. I have worked as a junior web designer for a brief period as a student, that experience assured me of how well I'm able to adapt to new experiences with different frameworks and just how vast the programming field is. I aim to now gain more training in bigger, complex workspaces. I am willing to start at the bottom and slowly build my career in this giant industry. I take any work seriously, very friendly, eager and open minded to learn and can work either individually or as a team.
